Princeton May Lose Bus Service to NYC Or Find It Curtailed

A possible act by East Brunswick Township carries with it the threat that Princeton will either lose its direct Suburban Transit bus connection to New York City, or have the current half-hourly service severely curtailed.

The East Brunswick Township Council expects to decide in October whether to accept a $20,100 bid from Inner Circle Qonexions, Inc. to lease the East Brunswick Park and Ride facility. The facility, located at Exit 9 of the New Jersey Turnpike, has been leased by Suburban Transit for the past 14 years.

Suburban's bid was $7,100. But East Brunswick Finance Director L. Mason Neely said that the dollars are insignificant. "We bid the quality of service issue," he said, adding that the Township has been dissatisfied with Suburban Transit's quality of service.

Borough Mayor Marvin Reed, in a letter to the Interstate Commerce Commission, said he had been advised by Suburban Transit that if Inner Circle Qonexions begins operation from East Brunswick, Princeton will have its service severely curtailed. Efforts to reach Suburban Transit General Manager Tom Rossiter were unsuccessful.

The Mayor urged the Interstate Commerce Commission to deny the permanent application of Inner Circle Qonexions.

Suburban runs a "milk run" from Princeton to New Brunswick, stopping at the wishes of passengers. The buses pick up about half their ridership at the 3,000-car East Brunswick park and ride lot, and then proceed nonstop to the Port Authority in Manhattan.

In another letter — this one to the NJ DOT and New Jersey Transit — Mayor Reed wrote that the provision of in-

Crop of New Restaurants Springing Up This Fall

In the natural order of things, autumn is a time of decline and death, while spring is a time of rebirth and renewal. But the restaurant industry is a funny business.

Last spring saw the death of two Princeton institutions: The Grotto, on Witherspoon Street, and Marita's Cantina, on Nassau Street. This fall, however, a pair of new eateries will be opening where they once stood.

If all goes according to plan, construction will be finished this week, and in early September, Quilty's, a bistro-style restaurant, will open in the space that formerly held the Grotto.

Coming to life in the Nassau Street space where Marita's once was, is the Triumph Brewing Company. Concrete footings for the proposed brew-pub were scheduled to be poured last week, and Ray Disch, the owner, plans to pour the first pints for the public in early November.

Although the Rusty Scupper is not a newcomer to the Princeton restaurant community, when it re-opens after a summer of renovation work, the town will, in effect, have a third new restaurant.

The Scupper closed in late June and is scheduled to re-open on September 14 after the completion of what service manager Rick Shutt calls "total renovation of the inside, outside, and landscaping."

Although the date is not firm, Alfred Kahn, owner of Abel Bagel, on Witherspoon Street, has made plans for expansion. The new Abel Bagel will offer twenty-four-hour service, and will include the already existing Road Pizza and bagel stores, a chicken rotisserie counter, and a diner-type area serving "quality food at a reasonable price."

Sam Roberts and Jason Ungar, the owners of Quilty's, are currently caught up in the myriad details that require their attention between now and their proposed September 1 opening date.

In their office, packed to overflowing with glassware, table settings, paper work, and other miscellany, Mr. Roberts and Mr. Ungar are on the telephone constantly. A short visit last week found them sampling various French breads and wines, while the phones rang and various vendors walked in and out of the office.

"Right now, we're toward the very end of construction," said Mr. Roberts. "The bar is in place, the tile is laid, and the kitchen is installed. We're waiting for the carpet." What remains to be done, he says, is "mostly cosmetic."

After overcoming various delays, construction took only two and a half months to com-

Township Committee Okays Repair Study For Mt. Lakes Dam

Princeton Township Committee has authorized the Township to enter into an agreement with Coastal Environmental Services, Inc. of Princeton to prepare grant applications for the reconstruction of the lower dam at the Mountain Lakes Nature Preserve, for a fee not to exceed $600.

Also at its meeting last week, Committee approved a resolution, giving the go-ahead to the Soil Conservation Service (SCS) to provide engineering designs for reconstructing the Mountain Lakes lower earthen dam and dredging the lower lake at no cost. It was also stipulated that the Township is not obligated to proceed with the project if it is financially unable to do so.

Princeton Township originally applied for SCS assistance in 1987, and now the project is finally in line for design, reported Township Engineer Robert Kiser. "I'm pleased that they are moving along, and we are happy we will be successful in obtaining grants and private assistance," he added.

Mountain Lakes consists of a central lake approximately two acres in size, formed by a masonry and stone dam 228 feet in length and eight feet in height. The lower lake is approximately five acres in size and formed by an earthen embankment approximately 500 feet in length and 16 feet in height.

The earthen dam was constructed in 1882, and has been temporarily repaired on numerous occasions. Because of its leaks, the lake dropped eight feet last summer, said Mr. Kiser. The leaks have been plugged temporarily, but the dam is in need of major renovation to meet current dam safety standards.

The Soil Conservation Service considered four alterterstate commuter bus service from many points in Mercer, Somerset, and Middlesex counties should not be subject to the discretion of a single municipality to the detriment of other riders along the route system.

Mr. Neely said that East Brunswick's dissatisfaction with Suburban's service related to such issues as problems with bus breakdowns and with air conditioning, as well as to buses being sent out without radios.

As for the possible elimination of Suburban Bus service from Princeton, Mr. Neely said this seemed to be bravado and threat. "Why would you go out of business?" he asked, adding, "the State law required us to bid. We're creatures of the State."

Mr. Neely said that a company doesn't cease one day running hundreds of buses. He also said that New Jersey Transit had chosen not to run buses out of Princeton because Suburban was there. "This doesn't say New Jersey Transit can't run these buses," he said.

Arch Davis, chairman of the Borough's Traffic and Transportation Committee, said that if he were Suburban Transit, the loss of the Park and Ride lot would have a severe impact on him, since they pick up about 50 percent of their current riders from this lot.

"If that goes, everything collapses," said Mr. Davis. "Politically, the question is whether one town has the right to regulate service."

natives, and estimated the cost of each. The second alternative was selected, which involves reconstruction of the lower earthen dam and dredging the lower lake to within 200 feet of the central dam, at an estimated cost of $835,000.

In recommending the second alternative, the SCS noted that the central stone and masonry dam will require maintenance work in the future to ensure its structural integrity.

According to Mr. Kiser, alternative two would also "allow the central dam to remain and preserve the aesthetic and historical value of the structure."

Mr. Kiser's Hard Work

Regarding the selection of Coastal Environmental Services to prepare grant applications, Mayor Phyllis Marchand commented on the hard work of Mr. Kiser. "Bob Kiser deserves a lot of credit. He is aware of all the different grants that are available for these projects, and we are grateful to him. Not everyone knows that we are able to get grants to help pay for these projects, and Bob is very knowledgeable."

SCS design work should begin later this year, and be completed by 1995, noted Mr. Kiser, and the grant applications have already gotten under way, with the first deadline September 1.

Community to Explore Challenge of Diversity

The Princeton Task Force on Ethics, in conjunction with Princeton University, Newgrange Community Outreach Center, The Princeton Joint Commission on Civil Rights, the Princeton Regional Schools, Princeton Project 55, and a host of nonprofit, religious, and volunteer organizations, has announced a major campaign aimed at initiating dialogue and positive interaction among the diverse elements of Princeton's population.

Diversity, cultural awareness, and conflict resolution are areas to be explored.

The campaign, which will feature community workshops and panel discussions on the issues of multiculturalism and promoting understanding and unity in an increasingly pluralistic community, will begin with a keynote address by journalist and Assistant Secretary of State for Public Affairs in the Carter Administration, Hodding Carter III.

Mr. Carter's address, which will be followed by a panel discussion, will explore the theme E Pluribus Unum at the local and national levels, and will be held at the John Witherspoon Middle School auditorium on Friday, September 30, at 7:30 p.m.

The program will continue on Saturday, October 1, with two workshops on the subject of diversity, also held at John Witherspoon, from 9 a.m. until noon. The first workshop, "Diversity: Kindergarten through Life," led by Dr. Charles Huchet and Kathy Patten of the Princeton Regional Schools, and Professor Miguel Centeno of Princeton University, will explore the ways in which the academic community deals with the challenge of diversity.

The second workshop, "Meeting the Challenge of Diversity: Conflict Resolution," led by Francesca Benson, senior director of Newgrange, Ovie Lattimore, Director of Civil Rights in Princeton, and Thomas Truitt of the Alternatives to Violence Project, will address issues of conflict resolution.

Participants in the workshops will also have the opportunity to experience a Japanese Tea Ceremony which will take place at 2 p.m. at the International Center, Murray Dodge Hall on the Princeton University campus.

Unity Picnic

The weekend events will culminate with a "Unity Picnic" on Sunday, October 2, from 1 to 5 p.m. at Community Park, and a youth forum. The picnic, co-sponsored by the Princeton Baha'i community, will feature poetry readings, modern dance, musical performances, and outdoor activities for all ages stressing teamwork and group skills.

"Learning to Respect Our Differences" will be the topic of discussion at the Interfaith Youth Forum which will take place from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. at Murray Dodge Hall, Princeton University.

"but we feel it is time to deal in depth with these issues which affect all of us in Princeton, and, for that matter, the entire country." According to Mr. Elmer, the Task Force made a concerted effort to solicit support and input from the entire Princeton community.

Organizers have corresponded and met with more than 100 representatives from religious, educatinnal and service communities, and will continue the outreach efforts to encourage and support other groups interested in developing programs centered around the E Pluribus Unum theme.

Year-Long Discussion

"It is essential that we generate broad-based community participation in what we hope will be a year-long discussion on the meaning of diversity and how we can begin to work towards making Princeton a more inclusive, equitable community," said Ovie Lattimore, Princeton's Civil Rights Director and also a member of the Task Force.

"It is only through honest and thought-provoking discourse that we will begin to be able to break down the barriers that separate, restrain and confine us all," he continued.

Princeton University has also begun scheduling a year-long series of events on the topic nf unity. Paula Chow, director of the Princeton University International Center and a member of the Task Force, and Assistant Provost Joann Mitchell have been working with the Task Force to coordinate University and community diversity-oriented projects.

The Task Force is now in the process of compiling a complete list of scheduled community and University events, and is interested in hearing from other groups and organizations which would like to be included in the year-long calendar of events.

Men's Mountain Bikes Targeted by Thieves

Half a dozen residences in Princeton Township and Princeton Borough were victimized by bicycle thieves this week. In most cases, the story is the same: the thief or thieves enter a garage, and remove a man's mountain bike.

Township police reported that a week ago Monday, a Trek 21-speed mountain bike valued at $335 was stolen from a Dodds Lane garage.

A similar Trek bike, valued at $750, was stolen from a Riverside Drive resident's garage between August 7 and August 21.

A Griggs Drive resident reported that a Mongoose brand mountain bike, valued at $350 was taken from outside his house between 2 p.m. on August 13 and 11:30 p.m. on August 17.

A Nishiki man's mountain bike, valued at $650, was stolen from the unlocked garage of a Lake Drive resident between August 5 and August 15.

In Princeton Borough, a grey Univega 15-speed mountain bike valued at $350 was stolen from a closed garage on Linden Lane between 6 p.m. on August 15 and 7:30 p.m. the next day.

A man's Bridgestone mountain bike, valued at $700, was taken from a storage shed at the Stanworth Apartments. The theft occurred between 12 a.m. and 6 a.m. on August 17. The bicycle had been locked to a rack, which was broken, apparently during the theft.

A man's 10-speed bicycle was stolen from the front area of 230 Witherspoon Street between 3 a.m. and 5 a.m. on August 19. The bike was valued at $80.

5.5 Percent Borough Tax Hike, Maybe

If current estimates of the amount of the 1994 Mercer County tax prove correct, Borough property owners will see a 5.5 percent increase in their property tax. This equals a rise of 22 cents per $100 of assessed valuation over last year.

The new County tax rate is expected to be voted on by the Mercer County Board of Freeholders on Thursday. If approved, this rate — added to the already-approved school and Borough municipal tax — will total $4.18 per $100, up from $3.96 last year.

The Borough property tax bill would divide up this way: County tax, $1.15; municipal tax, $1.01; school tax, $2.00; and open space assessment, 2 cents.

On Tuesday afternoon, however, the amount of the County tax was still far from certain. But the suspense should be over next week — providing the Freeholders adopt their long-awaited budget on Thursday.

Man Slashed With Knife In Witherspoon St. Fight

Police arrested Marlene Lovettle Marshall on Witherspoon Street early last Sunday morning, after what police are calling a domestic violence incident sent a man to the hospital for 23 sutures.

The 28-year-old Marshall, of 1 Mellon Street in Trenton, was charged with aggravated assault and possession of a weapon for an unlawful purpose.

Police declined to identify the victim, who is male, but said that Marshall cut him on the right hand with a 12-inch wooden-handled kitchen knife after an argument turned violent.

Marshall was released on 10 percent of $5,000 bail, pending a court appearance on August 29.

An incident involving criminal mischief, criminal trespass, and criminal sexual contact resulted in juvenile delinquency charges being filed against two youths last week.

Police said that the two males, one 10-year-old from North Brunswick, and one 12-year-old from Trenton, were arrested on Prospect Avenue near Ivy Lane last Friday at 4:15 p.m. The pair, who were using in-line skates, used spraypaint to deface the Tower Club and trespassed on the grounds of Princeton University.

In addition, the younger of the two approached a 40-year-old Township woman on Prospect Avenue, and grabbed her breast.

The youths were released into the custody of their parents, pending action by the juvenile officer.

A routine motor vehicle stop last Friday at 3:03 p.m. resulted in the arrest of Ohediah O. White, of 23 Delaware View Avenue, Trenton.

Mr. White was driving a car with no license plate, and police later determined that he was driving on a revoked license. Police also discovered a marijuana cigarette in the car.

Mr. White was charged with driving without a license, driving on a suspended license, and possession of a controlled dangerous substance.

Sharp-Looking Shoplifter Hits Downtown Clothier

A man in his early 30s, clad in a double breasted suit and a brown rimmed hat, stole a shirt valued at $29 from the J.M. McLaughlin store at 17 Witherspoon Street last Monday at 3:28 p.m.

Police responded to the store's call, but were unable to locate the man.

Two girls, aged between 12 and 14, shoplifted a silver ring with a stone, valued at $7.95, from the Salty Dog Gift Express on Spring Street a week ago Tuesday at 5:13. Police were unable to locate the pair.

Two men attempted to steal nearly $200 in compact discs from the Sam Goody store on Nassau Street last Thursday.

A store manager saw the two attempting to hide the CD's, from which they had removed the anti-theft devices, and called the police.

The suspects fled without the CD's. According to witnesses, one of the thieves is a thin man, 20-21 years of age, and approximately 5'6. The second is described as a heavy male with prescription glasses.

Two Defiant Trespassers Keep Borough Cops Busy

Two local figures, who specialize in defiant trespassing, kept Borough police occupied arresting them this week.

Arturo Pescador, of no known address, was arrested last Monday for defiant trespass on the grounds of the Princeton Public Library. He was also arrested on Wednesday, on the same charge, for trying to gain access to the Tower Club on Prospect Avenue.

Tamas Barnabas, also of no known address, was arrested at 12:02 a.m., for sleeping in the doorway of 252 Nassau Street. He was charged with defiant trespass.

A motor vehicle stop resulted in the bench warrant arrest of Jason Anthony Sabol, 19, of Carl Sandberg Drive in Trenton. A check of police records revealed that he was driving on a suspended license, and that a Hamilton Judge had signed a bench warrant for his arrest.

Mr. Sabol was turned over to the Hamilton Police Department.

Two 19-year-old men and four juvenile females were arrested last Wednesday at 9:54 p.m., after a Princeton University proctor reported to police that they were drinking alcohol outside the Woodrow Wilson School.

The two men, Aaron Thayer, of 26 Chestnut Street, and Timothy Brandt, of 10 Juniper Row, were charged with possession of alcohol by a minor.

The four girls, three of whom are 16 and one of whom is 15, were charged with juvenile delinqency. Two of the 16-year-olds are Township residents, and the third is from Manchester, New Jersey; the 15-year-old is from Idaho.

4th Assault Charge

A fourth assault complaint has been filed against Siobahn McVey-Finney, of 11 Alexander Street. McVey-Finney, who was charged with aggravated assault after an attack that left a 71-year-old woman in need of a hip replacement three weeks ago, is also the subject of three simple assault complaints.

In addition to two similar complaints that were filed earlier this month, McVey-Finney was identified by Lawrenceville resident Ann Douglas as the person who struck her while she walked on Nassau Street near Palmer Square on July 28 of this year.

Duties of the Two Princeton Mayors Include The Pleasant Tasks of Tying Marriage Knots

On December 16, 1959, in Wildwood, Marvin and Ingrid Reed were married. Five years later, in New York City in 1964, Phyllis and Lucien Marchand said their vows.

As Mayors of the Borough and Township, Marvin Reed and Phyllis Marchand are often asked to perform weddings. Whether the future husband and wife know it or not, they are saying their vows before two people who have triumphed over statistics and have enjoyed a combined total of 65 years as husband (in the Borough) and wife (in the Township.)

Mayor Reed officiates at four or five weddings a month; in June, however, the number rises to two or three every weekend. About half take place at Borough Hall — in the back yard in the summer and the courtroom in the winter — and others are held at the Nassau Inn, Prospect, the Nassau Club, living rooms, and back yards.

Phyllis Marchand and Marvin Reed
The Marryin' Mayors

Adapting the Ceremony

He assembled much of the four-page ceremony himself, mostly by going to the Public Library and reading about typical wedding services.

He also tailored the ceremony that had been used earlier. "There used to be a line, 'till death do us part,' but that was too morbid. I use 'for all our days together.' When I say it, it sounds like an eternal commitment."

The ceremony includes at least four places in which the couple can insert readings, music, or candlelighting.

When he performs weddings, the Mayor wears a lightweight pinstriped suit he calls his wedding suit. But for the biggest wedding he ever did, which had 10 bridesmaids and 10 ushers, he wore a tuxedo.

Mayor Marchand is especially fond of the final two paragraphs in the ceremony she uses, which she believes were added by Gail Firestone when she served as Township Mayor. They conclude, "... may they always remember that the best wishes and blessings of this company here assembled will always be with them."

She too is flexible with the ceremony, and is also happy to incorporate readings or poetry.

Variety of Sites

Many of the weddings Mayor Marchand performs are held in her Township Hall office. Others take place in Mountain Lakes, the Nassau Inn, homes, back yards, and Princeton-area hotels.

One of her most informal ceremonies was done on a farm. When it was time for the ceremony, people left the baseball game and pulled up redwood benches. The bride and groom were single parents who had met when their 9-year-olds played Little League.

"They threw birdseed, and I came home with a head full of birdseed," she recalled. "It's not that easy to get out."

Mayor Marchand doesn't wear a special dress at the wedding ceremony, but she tries to wear something as conservative as possible, such as a black or navy linen dress in the summer or a tailored suit in the winter.

An outdoor wedding also remains in Mayor Reed's mind because of its beauty. "Everyone was seated near a pond. When the musicians struck up the music, the bride and groom came across the field, hand in hand, a la Ingmar Bergman," he said.

Once in a great while, the couple arrive at Borough Hall without the two necessary witnesses. When this happens on a Saturday, and the Borough Hall staff is not there, the Mayor goes to the police desk and enlists department members. Once, two officers came out of the police gym and went right to the garden behind Borough Hall to witness the ceremony.

A Serious Time

One reason he takes the wedding ceremony seriously, said Mayor Reed, is that society makes it so easy to get married and so difficult to get unmarried.

He remembers hearing that a couple he had married were no longer together after a year. "They were a local couple, traditional sweet college kids," he said. "I felt a little bad."

Another time he received a call from the mother of the bride about a year after the wedding. She told him the husband was not supporting his wife and child, and was abusive. He listened, and referred her to Legal Aid for help.

Mayor Reed is pleased that

Marryin' Mayors

more and more couples are calling on him to perform their weddings, and thinks that perhaps there is word of mouth that he does a nice wedding.

"Barbara Sigmund [the late Mayor and Mr. Reed's predecessor] had a reputation for doing a nice wedding," said Mr. Reed. "I wasn't sure I would be able to keep the spirit. I don't think that I do weddings as she did them, but I can provide a happy ceremony."

An Emotional Ceremony

The ceremony Mayor Marchand says was one of her most emotional was done in the chapel at Princeton Hospital, where the groom's mother was very ill. The Mayor contributed the fee to the American Cancer Society.

Sometimes the couple does not pay a fee; at other times they will send Mayor Marchand flowers, or a small gift. "I am probably more the recipient of niceties than I am of a check," she said.

Once she was given a wooden welcome sign with the name of the bride and groom and the date of the wedding on the back. Another time, a bride from the Philippines gave her a small pin.

Mayor Reed contributes any fees he receives to Womanspace, in part to continue the tradition begun by Barbara Sigmund and in part, he says, because it is a good idea. "A small number of marriages don't work, and become violent. It is important to provide rescue," he said.

He said he has been told by Womanspace that he raises $3,500 a year.

Mayor Reed tries to accept invitations to the rehearsal dinner so he can get to know the couple and the family a little better. He also usually stays for about a half hour after the ceremony because he needs to get the signatures of the witnesses, who are often tied up in the receiving line.

Mayor Marchand doesn't often get to the rehearsal dinner, she said, but she does invite the couple to her office before the wedding so she can get to know them.

She will also stay a little while after the ceremony, but rarely is able to stay beyond that. Once, however, she received a call the next day from the newlyweds inviting her over to share leftovers with them. She accepted.

Keeping in Touch

Another couple, who were living abroad, returned about two years after the ceremony and called her. They said they wanted to show her their little daughter. Mayor Marchand met them and spent about an hour catching up.

One wedding that stays in Mayor Reed's mind is the time the couple arrived 45 minutes late, both dressed in jeans and tee shirts — outfits more suitable for gardening than for marrying.

They apologized to him and to the assembled guests, and explained that the bride's father had locked up her clothes because he didn't want her to get married.

Some phone calls were made, the clothes were retrieved, and the bride and groom, suitably dressed, were married.

Sources of Help

Both Mayors have been known to do double duty as wedding consultants. Mayor Reed is often asked to help figure out who will walk with whom. Mayor Marchand has been asked to recommend a photographer, band, and a restaurant for the rehearsal dinner.

Mayor Marchand also tries to ease any nervousness on the part of the couple by telling them not to worry if the ring doesn't fit — it's probably the humidity. She also assures them she will read the ceremony slowly, speaking only a few sentences at a time.

She has been officiating at weddings for about six years. But she will never forget the first wedding she performed.

"There were four people in the office, and one woman was pregnant. I assumed the pregnant woman was the witness. I've learned not to make assumptions any more."

"I love to do weddings," said Mayor Reed. "When all is said and done, the community grows and regenerates itself through the custom of marriage."

Mayor Marchand said she also loves to do weddings. "Every time I do one, I think of the vows I made."

In Borough Court this week, Sorrel Ahlfeld, of 82 Grover Avenue, was fined $80 for careless driving. Laurence O'Neill, of 19 Rosetree Lane in Lawrenceville, was fined $80 for failure to obey a traffic signal.

John Pinto, of 6 Greenhouse Drive, was fined $46 for failure to have proof of insurance in his possession while operating a motor vehicle.

Township Okays Appraisal Of Woodfield Reservation

Princeton Township Committee has approved professional service agreements with two firms to provide real estate appraisals of the proposed Woodfield Reservation addition.

At its meeting last week, Committee authorized Benchmark Appraisal, Inc. of Lakewood, for a sum not to exceed $2,250, and Ronald A. Curini Appraisal Company, Inc. of Hamilton Square, for a sum not to exceed $2,375, to undertake the appraisals.

This action was taken in anticipation of the Township's acquisition of a 52-acre portion of the Woodfield Reservation, which belonged to the late Lydia Poe. Woodfield Reservation, between the Old Great Road and Drake's Corner Road, is an especially attractive park, and Mrs. Poe's land had been used as part of the park with her permission since 1964. Now the Township has the option to purchase her property at its fair market value.

Preserving the park has been identified by the Planning Board as a critical acquisition parcel.

The Township must proceed within 90 days after being informed of the value of land, and must close one month later. Otherwise, the land will go on the market.

Township Administrator James Pascale noted that the fair market value is approximately $3 million. "However," he said, "we hope to acquire it at little or no cost to the taxpayer."

As he explained, the property is eligible for the New Jersey Green Trust (Green Acres) grant/loan program. The Township has applied for a grant of 25 percent of the appraisal value of the property ($750,000) and a 2 percent, 20-year loan for the balance ($2,250,000). If the grant/loan is approved, then the Township would pay Mrs. Poe's estate the full appraisal value, but the estate would then make a cash gift back, which could be invested and would almost fully amortize the repayment of the Green Acres loan.

After the appraisals (two are required by Green Acres) are completed, the Township will decide whether to proceed with the acquisition.

Valley Road and Busing On School Board Agenda

Who will pay for hazardous route busing and what will be the future of the Valley Road building — two issues that have brought the School Board into conflict with both Princeton Borough and Princeton Township — are expected to be discussed at the School Board meeting scheduled for Tuesday night, August 23.

The first area of contention is the issue of hazardous route busing. The School Board is expected to vote on a resolution stating that the Borough and Township are to pay 100 percent of the cost of this busing.

If, as expected, this resolution is approved by the School Board, it will directly contradict resolutions passed by both Borough Council and Township Committee.

In these, both municipalities agreed to pay two-thirds of the cost of hazardous route busing.

Higher in Township

The cost for this busing is considerably higher in the Township than in the Borough — approximately $93,000 to about $16,000.

At Township Committee last week, Mayor Phyllis Marchand told the School Board members who were present that arrangements between other municipalities and school boards in the area either called for equal sharing of hazardous route busing costs or for the school boards to pay the entire costs.

School Board President David Robbins said on Monday that hazardous route busing was a complicated issue.

"If the Board decides to go along with this resolution, we will do the busing and ask the Township and Borough to pay 100 percent of it. If they don't pay, then we'll have to worry about it."

Mr. Robbins was also scheduled to report on the question of what the School Board will do if the Township moves out of its portion of the Valley Road building.

Both former and present School Board members have had their say at recent meetings of Township Committee over the question of what will happen to the Valley Road building if the Township decides to build a new municipal building.

Rehobilitatian Optian

Rehabilitating Valley Road remains an option, with the cost estimated to run between $7.5 million and $10.7 million. The cost of building a new structure is estimated at $8.3 million.

At last week's Township Committee meeting, former School Board member Patty Soffronoff said she had reviewed the 1979 original lease between the School Board, which owns the Valley Road building, and Princeton Township, which rents it.

She told Township Committee that in 1979 the Township agreed to pay a dollar a year to lease the building and $50,000 a year to remodel it. "You moved in in 1980, and that's $650,000 you have saved," she said.

Township Administrator James Pascale has denied that the Township failed to live up to the terms of its lease with the School Board. There is general agreement, however, that the Valley Road building is in poor condition and in need of massive rehabilitation.

Noncanfrantational Mode

School Board President David Robbins seemed to be in a nonconfrontational mode on Tuesday morning, when he discussed the issue. He said he will ask the School Board to form a Valley Road subcommittee charged both with planning and with discussing with the Township the future of the building.

"If they decide to move out, we have to have some kind of plan," Mr. Robbins said. "Since the Township is seriously considering building a new building, we have to make plans about what to do if they move out."

He said that the building "probably hasn't been maintained at the level of the agreement, but we have to go forward from where we are now."

Mr. Robbins added that he wants to get a group of Board members involved in the issue, and that he does not feel that the School Board is at an impasse with the Township. "There has not been that much discussion," he said.

Among the issues the Valley Road subcommittee would consider are options for use of the building if the Township should move out. One possible option would be renting it to another tenant. Another would have to do with an alternative use of the site, which Mr. Robbins said was mentioned by Board Member John Clearwater.

Mr. Clearwater refused to comment on this, saying he did not want any such idea discussed in the press prior to discussing it with the School Board.

Cadwalader Area Houses Open for Walking Tour

Eight of Trenton's most stately houses will be open to the public, rain or shine, on Saturday, September 10 from noon to 5 p.m., during a walking tour of the city's Cadwalader Heights neighborhood. For the fourth year, residents of Cadwalader Heights are inviting the public to view eight grand homes of English Tudor, Georgian, Traditional, and Colonial style in a unique Trenton neighborhood, overlooking historic Cadwalader Park.

A special feature of this year's tour will be the "Holidays in September" boutique, a sale of handmade crafts created by artists and artisans in the neighborhood.

Cadwalader Park and the accompanying residential neighborhood were designed and laid out at the turn of the century by Frederick Law Olmsted, famed designer of many of America's grand parks and gardens. In the heart of the park is Ellarslie, the Trenton City Museum. This 1848 Italianate mansion maintains a permanent col-

The Tax Man Cometh - Maybe!

At last — almost — the news Township residents have been waiting for: those long-awaited property tax bills will be mailed next week — probably.

According to John S. Clawson Jr., Princeton Township Chief Financial Officer and Tax Collector/Treasurer, "The County is scheduled to vote on Thursday, and pending what happens at that meeting, we could have a rate by Friday. Hopefully. We will try our best to get the bills out the latter part of next week. Most likely, the bills will be due October 1."

Mr. Clawson noted that the law now stipulates that taxpayers receive 25 days notice, from the day the bills are mailed, before payment is due.

Property taxes include County, school, and municipal tax rates, and because Mercer County had not approved its budget, the bills have been delayed. Stay tuned!

lection depicting Trenton's rich industrial heritage, and a changing exhibit of works by local artists. The museum will be open during the time of the house tour.

Cadwalader Heights was developed between 1910 and 1930. Land developer Edmund C. Hill described the area as "a beautiful tract for high class residences on Trenton's most picturesque highlands." He stated that the area was "perfect for persons of refinement contemplating the construction of eloquent homes which combined the advantages of city improvements with the charm of the country."

In recent years, the community has attracted residents of different races and family backgrounds, who share the historical significance of the architecture as well as the sound value of their investment dollar in today's real estate market. A 12-room home with 4000 square feet can be purchased for $125,000 to $175,000.

Tickets, priced at $5, will be available on the day of the tour at the Cadwalader-Asbury United Methodist Church, located at the corner of Stuyvesant and Whittier avenues. The church will also be open for tours, and participants will have the opportunity to hear the church's pipe organ in concert. Church members will sell food and beverages.

Cadwalader Heights is situated two blocks off Route 29 on Parkside Avenue between Bellevue and Stuyvesant avenues.

Proceeds will benefit the New Visions Community Cultural Development Center and neighborhood preservation projects. New Visions is an after-school program for inner-city youth that provides tutoring, counseling, and cultural and recreational services.

New Exercise Programs Are Offered at YWCA

The Noontime Fitness Program at the Princeton YWCA has scheduled a four-day-a-week fitness class from 12:05 to 1 p.m. "Step On It," a step aerobics class, is offered Mondays and Wednesdays. On Tuesdays and Thursdays, the "Hi-Lo Combo" class provides a complete workout combining low and high intensity aerobics with concentrated muscle toning. The fee for the 12-week course is $123.

The new Hi-Lo Combo class, which is designed for all fitness levels is also offered Monday and Wednesday evenings from 8:30 to 9:30. The fee is $99.

Two new exercise programs that draw upon ancient Eastern disciplines and current research on fitness are also among the new fall offerings from the YWCA. The fall session begins Monday, September 12.

Yogaerobics combines principles from Eastern and Western movement disciplines such as Tai Chi Chaun, Hatha yoga and current research on fitness in a unique exercise class, which is particularly suited to older adults and individuals who have experienced injury but want to exercise. The class will include continuous movement "posture flows" of Hatha yoga to address flexibility, organ functioning, and blood flow to tendons and ligaments, as well as a gentle cardiovascular workout section.

Instructor Jaime S. Schmitt, Ed.D., CMA, has a doctorate in dance and movement studies from Temple University, and is certified in Laban movement analysis and Hatha yoga. She is on the faculty of the Tri-State Institute of Traditional Chinese Acupuncture, guest lectures at Westminster Choir College and Princeton University, and has a private movement therapy practice in Princeton.

The Yogaerobics 12-week class will be held Thursdays from 10:35 to 11:30 a.m. The fee is $99.

Yun Zhang of Beijing, China, who has studied the discipline for more than 20 years, will teach Taiji (T'ai Chi), the traditional Chinese martial arts class, which promotes good physical health and helps alleviate stress. Taiji's slow and smooth movements increase fitness while minimizing risk of injury. It also is an effective self-defense system, and can benefit individuals interested in health and fitness and also martial arts. Two six-week sessions will be offered beginning September 12 and again October 24. The cost for each session is $49.

For more information on these and other fitness courses at the YWCA, call April James, fitness director, at 497-2118.

"Evening on the Town" Returns as Eden Benefit

After a four-year hiatus, the Eden Family of Services is reviving one of its most popular events. "An Eden Evening on the Town" will take place Sunday, September 18, at 5:30 at the Nassau Club. The event will raise money for the Eden Family of Services, a non-profit serving children and adults with autism.

Last sponsored by Lahiere's restaurant in 1989, this black-tie dinner fundraiser is known for successfully rallying residents to support Eden as they enjoy an evening of "quiet elegance" and gourmet dining. The upcoming "Evening on the Town" will be held at the Nassau Club, whose newly renovated facility will offer a private, sophisticated setting for the party.

Jean Pierre's, a popular French restaurant in Newtown, Pa., has agreed to donate its culinary services to provide an exquisite five-course dinner. The Frenchtown Inn will contribute hors d'oeuvres for the cocktail reception.

The Hyatt Regency Princeton will donate the services of its catering staff for the evening.

The benefit steering committee, co-chaired by Pamela J. Dempsey and Dianne Vatalero, has gathered door prizes valued at $500 and up, which will be awarded during the evening. Steering committee members include Georgie Brennan, Irene Farley, Suzanne Goldenson, David Long, Yvone Lysaker, Polly Moles, Nora Orphanides, Lucinda Porter, Rosalie Puzio, Janice Riley, and Norman Tottenham-Smith.

Reservations are $150 per person and available by invitation only. Seating will be limited to 150 people, with reservations taken in the order received. For additional information, call the Eden Institute Foundation, 987-0099.

PATCHWORK QUILTY'S: The old Grotto is unrecognizable now, as workers place the finishing touches on Quilty's, a French bistro-style restaurant set to open on Witherspoon Street on September 1.

plete. The former Grotto now boasts an Italian white marble bar and will seat 50 people, when the tables and banquettes are installed.

The menu will feature French cuisine, but will not be limited in any way. Speaking earlier this year, Mr. Ungar said that Quilty's would serve food from other culinary traditions as well, including Thai-infused dishes and southwestern-style fare

Although the restaurant is not large enough to support an extensive wine cellar, Mr. Ungar has indicated that he hopes to win the trust of his patrons by keeping a small but selective cellar stocked with wines chosen to complement Quilty's cuisine.

Triumph Brewing Company

Sitting in his office above the gutted remains of Marita's Cantina, Ray Disch, one of the partners in the Triumph Brewing Company, says, "As of now, we're on schedule."

After a series of delays that pushed their proposed opening date back by five weeks, he and his partners have pursued an "aggressive construction schedule" designed to have the brew pub open by early November.

The glass-enclosed brewhouse, which will be the focal point of the two-story restaurant, is scheduled for installation between October 6 and 12. "By mid-October," says Mr. Disch, "we hope to have a batch for ourselves to try."

In spite of some difficulties in the permit process, Mr. Disch says, "Generally, I feel blessed in the way that the town has treated us."

"I've been pushing everybody hard on this," he adds. "You have to, otherwise things like this can languish. You've got to be here; nobody cares more than the owner."

A Range of Ales

"We'll have six beers on tap at a time," says brewmaster and partner Adam Rechnitz. "We'll have three or four mainstays, with the other taps rotating between other beers."

Initially, he says, he will be brewing only English-style ales. He plans to open the pub with a pale ale, a mild amber ale, a porter, a stout, a special bitter, and a wheat beer.

In the future, patrons can expect to see specialty brews, such as an English-style "wassail" at Christmas-time.

According to Mr. Rechnitz, the average batch of beer, "from grain to glass," takes 10 to 14 days to make, so the Triumph Brewing Company will be able to offer its patrons new brews on a regular basis.

Scouring the "Scupper"

Habitues of the Rusty Scupper may have a hard time recognizing the place when it reopens next month. According to Mr. Shutt, the kitchen, dining area, lounge, and restrooms have all been remodeled.

The menu has been expanded to place greater emphasis on seafood and steaks, and will feature fresh lobster from the restaurant's own lobster tank.

To complement the food, 14 French and West Coast wines

FROM CANTINA TO BREW-PUB: Construction workers were ready to pour the concrete footings of the Triumph Brewing Company's Nassau Street brew-pub last week. Formerly Marita's Cantina, the entire space was gutted to prepare for new construction.

will be available by the glass, and as many as 12 kinds of beer will be on tap.

"We will have a 12-head draft beer unit," says Mr. Shutt. "We'll be concentrating on micro-breweries."

The restaurant will be featuring the products of the Stoudt Brewery, in Adamsville, Pa., but will also carry beer produced by the New York-based New Amsterdam Brewery as well as various domestic and imported beers.

The upstairs bar area has undergone some of the most extensive renovations. An area in the rear of the bar that holds two pool tables has been closed off with a glass window, to cut down on the amount of noise escaping to the dining area.

One of two large balcony areas which overlooked the dining room has been covered over entirely to provide more room for tables and booths.

As a final touch, a two-person rowing scull, complete with oars, has been suspended from the ceiling in the center of the bar area.

The whole decorating scheme of the restaurant has been changed, says Mr. Shutt, to "accent the Princeton history and match the seafood theme."

Mr. Shutt expects that 95 percent of the restaurant's staff will return when it reopens. He also plans to hire 40 to 45 additional workers.

"We will be offering a higher level of service to our customers," he says.

The Bagel Block

A sign in the window of the former North China restaurant on Witherspoon Street advertises the May 2 opening of La Casa Napoli, but as owner Alfred Kahn points out, "It doesn't say what year."

Mr. Kahn is unsure of the future of the 2,200-square-foot restaurant space, but La Casa Napoli is only one possibility. He says that he has received inquiries from people interested in opening Indian, Lebanese, Mexican, and Chinese restaurants in the space.

In the meanwhile, plans are being made for the expansion of Abel Bagel into what sounds like a self-contained mini-mall of food stores.

In the space that is already occupied by Abel Bagel and Road Pizza, Mr. Kahn plans to add a rotisserie chicken counter and a diner "with seats and clean bathrooms."

"We're putting in a grill and a griddle, and planning to be open 24 hours," he says.

He expects to appeal to the late night munchies of University students who are, he fears, "getting tanked up and driving out to Denny's on Route 1."

The equipment has all been ordered, he reports. "We're just waiting for the permits to get started."

While he waits, Mr. Kahn is occupying himself by thinking up potential names for his new ventures. His current favorite for the rotisserie chicken counter?

Princeton Peckers.

Princeton Summer Theatre's "It's Only a Play"
An Assemblage of Character Types & Funny Moments

THINKING UP NASTY ONE-LINERS are Michael Herschberg (left) as Gus the hopeful singer-actor, Ana Cammarata as Julia, the fledgling producer, and Claudia Woloshin, who plays Virginia, the leading lady in Terrence McNally's "It's Only a Play."

Terrence McNally's It's Only a Play, modestly titled though it may be, turns out to be something less than a play — more like a blizzard of theatrical name-dropping, one or two uproariously funny moments and a clever assemblage of nasty one-liners.

Set at an opening night party in the New York townhouse of a Broadway producer, Princeton Summer Theatre's final offering of the season features a variety of theatrical character types as they nervously await TV and newspaper reviews: the eager untried producer, the boy-wonder director, the hypersensitive playwright, the leading lady, the would-be star who in the meantime is the temporary coat-carrying butler, the Hollywood actor and playwright's best friend, the vitriolic and pompous critic who turns out to be an aspiring playwright, and the female taxi driver (our only representative from the "real" world).

Mr. McNally, who called this piece "my attempt to describe exactly what it was like to work in the Broadway theater in the 1980s," knows and loves his subject matter thoroughly, despite his withering and relentless satire. Theater "insiders" will recognize the personality profiles, the egos and emotions — not to mention the dozens of names of famous actors, directors, playwrights and critics of the past decade.

In addition to its lampoons launched in all directions, the play does have its serious moments, and it ultimately makes a strong and sentimental appeal for kindness and understanding towards these fragile, ego-absorbed theater people. Unfortunately, however, both plot and characterization here are thin, and when the jokes subside, there isn't much left to keep the audience interested.

Not Up to Snuff

First produced in its current form off-Broadway in 1986 (after two previous unsuccessful manifestations in 1978 and 1982), It's Only a Play is not of the same caliber as Mr. McNally's more recent hits, including Frankie and Johnnie in the Clair de Lune, Lips Together, Teeth Apart, A Perfect Ganesh and the book for the musical Kiss of the Spider Woman.

The PST cast of eight, under the direction of Princeton University senior Catherine Dunning, makes a worthy effort to keep the action moving and to sustain the humor.

A shining success in that department, and a memorable three-dimensional character is Kathi Garofano's Emma, the taxi driver who arrives with copies of the New York Times review about half way through the play. "Cab driver to the stars," as she describes herself, this gum-chewing, New York-accented, down-to-earth cabbie comes very close to stealing the show.

She knows she's the only objective person there, and her commentary on life, theater and the characters and situations at the party provides a funny and richly ironic perspective throughout the second act. An experienced area actress, Ms. Garofano plays this colorful character with a perfect, credible balance of understatement and self-assurance.

Also firmly rooted in character and consistently convincing is Ana Cammarata as the fledgling producer, who divides her evening between coping with the fragile egos of her colleagues, both in person and on the telephone, and pursuing her next investment opportunity.

Brian Bara, as the playwright's best friend, who has just flown in from Hollywood where he performs in an about-to-be-canceled TV series, humorously manifests the narcissism and brittle insecurity of this show-biz character whose well-being depends on the most recent opinion from his public.

Some Comic Moments

Other cast members are more mannered, less three-dimensional and less convincing in their parts. Despite some sharply comic moments and one or two moving scenes, these actors fall victim to either the thinly written and thinly developed script or to excessive efforts — their own and the director's — to keep the audience laughing.

Yes, this is a farcical situation, and these are intended to be histrionic theater people, but this is not musical comedy, and for the play to work, in both its comic and its serious intentions, the audience should find these characters believable and sympathetic. The situation here drags on too long after the good jokes have started to wear thin.

Michael Herschberg is the hopeful singer-actor and temporary help, who spends his night assiduously vying for a chance to display his talents as he frenetically carries the guests' coats up and down the stairs.

Claudia Woloshin is the sharp-tongued, heavily affected leading lady, who is returning to the stage as her career in the movies sputters.

Rob Rosiello is the thin-skinned, volatile playwright, with some development of character and plot here in the betrayed relationship between author and his best friend the actor, but it does not go far enough to engage our interest for very long.

William Pyonteck is the neurotic, kleptomaniacal and brilliant young director who, in an interesting contrast to his fellow characters, seems most upset when his work is most highly praised.

As the windbag, hypocritical Ira Drew, "one of the most vicious critics in New York," Curtis Kaine plays a highly dramatic, sporadically humorous character who, during the course of the evening, learns what it's like to go through the experience of an "insider" in the theater.

Jen Grant has designed the excellent set — lavish, detailed and functional — to create just the right surroundings for this affluent New York producer and her histrionic guests.

It's Only a Play wraps up Princeton Summer Theatre's successful 1994 season with five more performances, August 25 through 28, Thursday to Saturday at 8 p.m., and matinees on Saturday and Sunday at 2 p.m. Call 258-4950 for reservations and further information.

New Westminster Chorale To Schedule Auditions

The Westminster Conservatory of Music will hold auditions for the Westminster Conservatory Chorale Saturday, September 10 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Conservatory's main office on the campus of Westminster Choir College of Rider University. High school choral singers from central New Jersey and eastern Pennsylvania are encouraged to schedule an audition by calling 921-7104, extension 260.

The area's newest choral ensemble, the chorale will be conducted by Frank Abrahams, head of the Westminster Choir College music education department. In announcing the establishment of the Westminster Conservatory Chorale, Mr. Abrahams said, "As the center for choral music in America for the past 60 years, Westminster offers the ideal setting for an honors choir for talented high school students looking for an advanced choral experience."

Rehearsals will be held on Thursdays from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. on the Westminster campus beginning September 22. The chorale will perform concerts in December and May.

Conductor Abrahams has more than 20 years of experience as a high school choral director. His choirs have sung with Robert Page, Elaine Brown and Gail Poch and have performed and recorded Durufle's Requiem under the baton of Roger Wagner. His choir also performed at the White House in 1978 at the invitation of President Carter and returned to the White House in 1980 at the president's request.

Auditions for Singers By Voices Choral Group

The 60-member Voices Chorale invites singers from Princeton and surrounding communities to audition for the chorus. There are openings for sopranos, altos, tenors and basses who read music and want to perform outstanding choral literature. This fall, the Chorale will record and perform Charpentier's Midnight Mass for Christmas, as well as folk songs from Germany, Africa and the United States.

The Voices Chorale membership consists of 60 volunteer singers and six professional singers who are also members of the Voices Ensemble, a group of 16 professionals. The Chorale will make its first recording this fall, and will perform in three major concerts between October and December. In addition, a rehearsal/picnic will be held on Saturday, October 1. Established in 1992 to provide talented area singers with the opportunity to sing challenging chamber music, the Chorale was recently featured in a concert series, In Praise of Women, in New York and New Brunswick.

Chorale conductor Lynne Ransom, who holds degrees from Oberlin College, the University of Michigan and Cincinnati College-Conservatory of Music, was among the local artists who received a 1992 Arts Council of Princeton Award for contributions to cultural life. John Forconi, a member of the piano faculty at the Manhattan School of Music, serves as the pianist and vocal coach for both the Chorale and the professional ensemble. Mr. Forconi, a chamber musician, has performed with outstanding soloists in the United States and the Far East.

Rehearsals are Monday evenings in Princeton. Interested singers may call 799-0308 before September 7 to schedule an audition. Auditions will be held on August 30, 31 and September 10 in Princeton at sites which are accessible to those with special needs.

Dixieland Jazz Group At "Music in the Park"

Pete Nictakis and his Dixieland Band will present a free concert at 7 p.m. Saturday at Mercer County Park, West Windsor. This is the last performance of the "Music in the Park" series this season.

Drummer Pete Nictakis has performed with such famous musicians and groups as Frankie Laine, the Al Hibbler Jazz Quintet, and the Paul Whiteman Orchestra. The band has appeared at the Kool Jazz Festival in New York and in Philadelphia, Chicago and locally. It has also performed for the New Jersey and Delaware Valley Jazz Societies.

The performance will be held near the ice rink at Mercer County Park. Spectators may bring chairs, blankets and picnics. In the event of rain, performances will be held inside the rink.

For further information, contact the Cultural and Heritage Commission weekdays at 989-6899. On the day of the concert, call Mercer County Park, 586-8090.

Hopewell Valley Chorus Plans Anniversary Season

The Hopewell Valley Chorus, a mixed-voice group of 60 singers, will celebrate its 35th anniversary fall season. Former members and newcomers are invited to an informal reception for prospective members on Monday, September 12 at 7 p.m. in the chorus room of the Hopewell Valley Central High School on Pennington-Titusville Road, Pennington. The first rehearsal for the season will follow the reception and will preview selections for this year's Christmas concert, including John Rutter's Gloria and Jean Sibelius' Five Christmas Songs.

For more information, call Joel May, membership, 737-2091 or Leo Livecchi, president, 466-1447.

In Praise of the Sounds And Silences of Summer

To the Editor of Town Topics:

O noisy leaf blowers and mowers. You break the Sabbath's silence amid The Great Road's lush meadows and rolling hills. Can you be silenced? So inquires Stephen C. Bandy (TOWN TOPICS, August 17].

May I suggest, as a sample route, a walk, or a bike ride, over Westcott, Cleveland, Library Place, through Hodge and over to The Great Road. There is a sense of tranquillity here.

The leaves of lofty trees shed a gentle breeze. Neighbors display colorful gardens enclosed by cool green hedges. A butterfly flits gracefully overhead. Leaf blowers and mowers are in retreat.

As evening descends, nature's lamplighters — fireflies — fill the black void. Occasionally, earth-shaking thunder claps, lightning flashes, a rainshower punctuates the summer stillness. Humidity then gives way to refreshing earthy pungence. Katydids and crickets, in chorus, serenade the August evening air.

Perhaps "Sunday in New York is serenity itself,..." though, many New Yorkers, in turn, flee to mountain, country and "the Island." Would I trade Princeton's bucolic splendor for New York's concrete canyons?

Place in Town Needed To Buy Recycling Lids

To the Editor, Town Topics:

Thank you for bringing us news of additional recycling opportunities — the green can [TOWN TOPICS, August 3]. I have found it desirable to use a lid with the yellow can, but a trail of Princetonians driving to Trenton for a two-dollar lid will vitiate our purpose.

Could we have a Saturday morning or two in September to sell the lids near the recycling station in the shopping center? Here is one volunteer. Or would Cub Scouts like to take on distribution for a small benefit fee?

KAY KUHN
Evelyn Place

Editor's Note: Lids for the green paper-recycling cans will be available only at the Mercer County Improvement Authority office, 210 River View Executive Park in Trenton.

Sculptor Returns to Find He Has Stirred Up a Furor

To the Editor of Town Topics:

What a furor! What a pot-boiling! My wife and I returned to Princeton from our home in England the other day to a sheaf of articles and letters collected by my mother-in-law. Einstein, yes, no, maybe. I don't think so, great idea, wimpy sculpture, modest talent, wonderful artist, etc., etc.

Having been 3000 miles away and involved with another tribute (see photo above), I knew nothing of the controversy my modeled sketch had provoked. Shock, a little sting to read the openly hostile letters which over-rode the positive and supportive ones, then what-the-hell laughter.

Let me first of all apologize for contributing to the furor. I created the study for viewing by prospective sponsors. The sketch was never intended for public display. I would remove it, but it seems to have become an integral part of Landau's wonderful Einstein Tribute.

Second, about Einstein's wishes, I've read three biographies and a number of articles in my research and found no indication that he was a shy or private man. To the contrary, he seemed comfortable in front of the camera, and there were many portraits and sculptures — the Jacob Epstein bust comes to mind — made during his lifetime, and with his approval.

Third, that he has been memorialized in Switzerland, Washington, and even South America, and not in Princeton, is a gross oversight. He should be honored and remembered — if not by me, by another.

Finally, I have read the cost of the sculpture as $65, $67 and even $69,000. I have presented an outside estimate of $60,000. I thank all of you who have supported the proposed tribute either by donation or letter. And thank you, Editor, for publishing the ongoing (and healthy) exchanges. Professor Einstein would surely have been amused.

Society Has No Position On Einstein Statue Issue

To the Editor of Town Topics:

In response to your article about the proposed Einstein statue and the remarks inaccurately attributed to our director, I wish to clarify that the Historical Society has not taken a position on this issue, nor would our board agree to do so if asked.

We are not an advocacy group; rather the Society strives to serve as a resource on the history of our community and its preservation in the broadest sense.

There is currently an extraordinary amount of interest in Einstein, not all of it due to the recent filming of I.Q. For quite a while some of the questions our staff and volunteers have been asked most are "Where is Einstein's House?" and "Can I visit it?"

In response to this widespread interest, the Society has decided to mount an interpretive exhibition on Einstein's life and work next year, building upon the popular window display at Landau's and incorporating some of the props from I.Q.

Within our membership, now approaching 1,000 for the first time in our history, there are obviously various opinions for, and against, such a commemorative statue of Einstein.

It is fitting, in the final analysis, that the debate and decision on this matter remain at that level — within the hands of the residents of our community.

T. JEFFERY CLARKE
President
Historical Society of Princeton

Editor's Note: The remarks Mr. Clarke refers to as "inaccurately attributed to our director" were made by Robert Landau at a meeting of Borough Council and quoted in the August 10 issue of TOWN TOPICS. At the meeting, Mr. Landau remarked that the director of the historical Society said the Society supported the Einstein statue.

A Bust, Not a Statue More Fitting Memorial

To the Editor, Town Topics:

Instead of spending $69,000 (wow!!) on a statue of Albert Einstein — of which he himself would surely have disapproved — how about settling for a bust?

A really good likeness in bronze, set upon a pedestal, would be a suitable memorial, yet far less colossal than a life-size statue.

Artists & Crafters Sought For Show in New Hope

Plans for the annual New Hope outdoor art show are under way and the organizers have put out a call for artists in all media, including photography and high-quality crafts, to exhibit at the event, which is scheduled for October 1 and 2.

The show, which will be judged, is a long-standing New Hope tradition, and is expected to attract some 10,000 visitors who come to view and buy art and crafts. For an application, call 215 862-5880.

Exhibits

"Ross-Romano-Ross: Two Generations," a collection of paintings, drawings, prints, and artists' books by John Ross, Clare Romano and Tim Ross, will be on exhibit at the Rider University Art Gallery from Thursday, September 29, through Sunday, October 23. An artists' reception, to which the public is invited, will be held on Wednesday, October 12, from 5 to 7 p.m.

John Ross and Clare Romano, along with their son Tim Ross, are a family of artists who have discussed the techniques, traditions, and innovations of printmaking in the book, The Complete Printmaker. John and Clare are well known for their painting and printmaking, which often reflect their extensive travels. All three are graduates of the Cooper Union School of Art in New York City and have spent years sharing their talents with students in the classroom.

Rider University Gallery hours are Monday through Thursday, noon to 2 p.m. and 6 to 8 p.m., and Friday through Sunday, 2 to 5 p.m. The Gallery is located on the second floor of the Student Center.

An exhibit featuring works by Ravi Karkal will open in the library at Merwick, 79 Bayard Lane, on Friday, September 9 with a wine and cheese reception. The show will run until December 8.

Mr. Karkal, of Princeton, has been painting for 35 years. He graduated from an art institute in Bombay, India, and studied portrait painting with Badakere, a famous Indian portrait artist.

A multi-artist exhibition will open in the dining room of the Princeton Medical Center on Friday, September 23 at 4 p.m. with a wine and cheese reception. The show will run until November 17.

The artists include Jackie Bullett, Rita Calo, Annette Carter, Peggie Cunningham, Elza Dima, Betty Donovan, Bernice Fatto, Miriam Friend, Sandra Goldbeg, Vera Harrop, Virginia Hopkins, Harriet Kaftanic, Betty Klank, Mary Kramarenko, Marietta Kust, Cecil Letts, Jim Morse, Gail Robertson, Wilma Shimer and Janet Singley.

Exotic, antique travel photographs from all over the world, some dating back to the 1880s, will be on view at The Gallery at Mercer County Community College from August 30 through September 30.

The exhibition, "Living in the Past: Albumen Prints of the Grand Tour," features travel photographs of Japan, Europe, Egypt, America and other locales known collectively in the last century as the Grand Tour.

These images, which became available to tourists soon after the introduction of commercial photography, were taken and printed by professional photographers in a laborious process known as albumen. The photographers behind the images went to great lengths to produce their pictures, in many cases traveling by wagon or carrying portable darkrooms on their backs. It took three or four weeks for them to reach some destinations.

Most of the negatives were produced with the wet-plate process; the images were then printed onto albumen paper. The albumen process of printing was developed in 1852 and uses albumen, or egg white, as a suspension medium for light-sensitive emulsion. The process sped up photographic printing and enabled more prints to be made in less time than previously possible.

Photographers represented in the exhibition include George Barker, Baron Von Stillfried, Kusakabe Kibei and Edward L. Wilson. Some of the prints are on loan from the New Jersey State Museum; many have never been exhibited before.

The Gallery at Mercer County Community College is located on the second floor of the Communications Building on the West Windsor campus, 1200 Old Trenton Road. Gallery hours are 11 a.m. to 3 p.m., Monday through Friday, and 6 to 8 p.m. Thursday.

"Making Strides" Event To Help Fight Cancer

The fifth annual "Making Strides Against Cancer" fund-raising event will take place on Sunday, October 16, rain or shine. The five-mile, non-competitive pledge event brings together cancer survivors, families, friends and co-workers to walk, run, wheelchair, bike or rollerblade. Participants are welcome to join in at their own pace and finish only what they can.

The event is held at Mercer County Community College, 1200 Old Trenton Road, West Windsor. Registration begins at 10:30 and participants will begin "making strides" at noon after opening ceremonies. Call 895-0101 for registration/pledge forms.

Participants will be treated to a free lunch by Charlie Brown's Restaurant. Children will be entertained by clowns, face painting and pumpkin painting. Everyone will enjoy the live music of the Hygh Risque Band, local DJs, country dancing, a hayride, "Celebrity Striders" and the chance to win one of three raffle prizes. Also on display will be the Tree of Life, which honors those who have experienced cancer.

"This is an awareness event to celebrate the strides made against cancer and the fact that you can beat this disease," says Rich Glaser, cancer survivor and chairman of this year's event. "It reinforces the message that more people are surviving cancer today due to early detection and advanced treatments," he added.

Notre Dame set an amazing football record when they won every game one season — even though they NEVER played a home game that year ... It happened in 1929 ... The new Notre Dame stadium was being built while the old one had already been dismantled, forcing the Irish to play all games on the road ... Yet they went undefeated — the ONLY unbeaten team in history that played all games away from home.

Who was the youngest man ever to hit a home run in big league baseball? ... The record was set by shortstop Tommy Brown of the Dodgers ... He hit a homer in 1945 at age 17.

What was the greatest round of golf ever shot? ... According to many experts, the best 18 holes ever played were by Johnny Miller in the final round of the U.S. Open in 1973 ... Miller started that day in 13th place — but then went out and won the Open with an epic, record round of 63 on the tough Oakmont (Pa.) course ... It was said nobody ever hit approach shots so close to the holes so often as Miller did that day.

section is one of 17 geographical sections of the USTA, the national governing body of tennis in the United States. The USTA/MS, which comprises Pennsylvania, Delaware, New Jersey (exclusive of a 35-mile radius around New York City), and northwest West Virginia, is further subdivided into six district associations — Allegheny Mountain, Central Pennsylvania, Delaware, Lehigh Valley, New Jersey, and Philadelphia Area.

The players competing at the championships represent various clubs, parks, recreational departments and organizations from these respective districts. The teams have finished at the top of their local USTA/MS district leagues and are now vying for a chance to represent the USTA/Middle States section at the USTA League Tennis National Championships.

More than 150,000 adult members of the USTA participate yearly in the USTA League Tennis program. Players are grouped into six different ability levels, from beginner (2.5)) to advanced (5.0), based on the National Tennis Rating Program.

Play consists of both singles and doubles matches with the outcome based on team scoring.

"The sectional championships determine the best tennis teams in this area," says Gail Marx, USTA/MS league coordinator and tournament director for the event. "They've fought their way here, and now they have a chance to win and qualify to compete in the national championships. These teams have a shot at being the number one recreational tennis team in the country."

Princeton High Soccer Will Have Frosh Squad

A pledge of $8,000 from the Princeton Soccer Association has made it possible for Princeton High School to field boys' and girls' freshman soccer teams this fall.

John Curtis, Director of Athletics for the Princeton Regional School District, announced recently that the Soccer Association's pledge will allow both squads to play a 12-game schedule.

The freshman teams will be coached by two half-time coaches, associated with the varsity and junior varsity squads. All games will be officiated by cadet-level officials, as is standard for high school freshman contests.

The High School had no freshman girls' team last year, and due to cuts in the athletic budget, had been forced to consider cutting the boys' squad as well.

Mr. Curtis said that as of last week, he had begun to schedule games for the girls' team. He stressed that the schedule may be somewhat difficult to fill because, as a new team, Princeton has not been incorporated into the regular schedules of other local girls' freshman teams.

The boys' team, says Mr. Curtis, is likely to play the same schedule that it played last year.

Run for Freedom Set To Benefit Handicapped

The fifth annual Run for Freedom will be held on Wednesday, September 28 at 6:30 p.m. along Lenox Drive in Lawrenceville. All proceeds from the race go to Project Freedom, Inc., a non-profit organization which provides recreational, living and other related services to the physically challenged. The race will raise money for supplies and activities which are not covered through other sources.

All pre-registrants will receive a long-sleeved T-shirt. The deadline for pre-registration is September 24. Runners who register on race day will also receive a T-shirt while they last. Trophies are presented to the first-through third-place winners in six age categories. In addition, the top three corporate teams will receive awards. The cost to enter is $12 before and $15 on the day of the run.

For further information, contact Project Freedom at 448-2998.

St. Francis Golf Outing Scheduled for September

Lawrence Lexus has chosen St. Francis Medical Center's 12th Annual Golf and Tennis Outing to be part of their 1994 Lexus Champions for Charity series. The St. Francis outing, which benefits the hospital's Regional Neuromuscular Program, will be held on September 8 at the Trenton Country Club.

As part of the Champions for Charity series, Lexus will donate $1,000 to the hospital's Neuromuscular Program and will offer competitors the opportunity to win a Lexus LS400. The winning twosome will be invited to participate in their annual grand finale, the Lexus Champions for Charity National Championship held in Palm Springs, Calif.

Tickets for the St. Francis outing are $275 for golf and $150 for tennis. Since space is limited, early registration is suggested. To make reservations or to obtain more information about the event, call 599-5659.

Catholic Charities to Hold Annual Dinner and Dance

Catholic Charities' Annual Dinner and Dance is set for Friday, September 16, from 7 to midnight at the Princeton Hyatt on Route 1.

Proceeds from the event will benefit the poor, homeless, abused, mentally ill, addicted and overwhelmed people in Mercer, Monmouth, Ocean and Burlington counties. A silent auction will be held at the beginning of the evening and will feature a variety of items.

Last year, nearly 500 people attended the event, which serves as the agency's major fundraiser. This year Lawrenceville resident Michael O'Hara expects an even better turnout.

"We have a lot of dedicated volunteers working very hard to pull this event together," said Mr. O'Hara. "Many people understand and appreciate the difficulties that Catholic Charities faces, as more and more people need help and there is less money available to help those most in need."

Catholic Charities is the social service arm of the Catholic Church and helps all people in need, regardless of race, age or religious affiliation

The agency helps physically and sexually abused children, battered women, the homeless and hungry, girls and women experiencing crisis pregnancies, the mentally ill, those suffering from addictions, troubled parochial school children and the elderly, families, couples and children in need of counseling and people who suffer with AIDS or HIV-infection.

Its 32 programs in Mercer, Monmouth, Ocean and Burlington counties helped more than 76,000 people last year.

For more information on the dinner, call the development office at 394-5181, or from the 908 area code call 1-800-642-0218.

"Research on small rural Jewish communities in America has been limited because very little source material was available," she said. "I hope that the availability of the Farmingdale collection will stimulate more research on a seriously under-studied aspect of the American Jewish experience."

The others are Roosevelt, Stelton, and Free Acres. Rutgers also has a collection of archival records of numerous New Jersey synagogues dating from the 19th century to the present.

In addition to assembling the archive, Dr. Dubrovsky has published a social history of Farmingdale, The Land Was Theirs: Jewish Farmers in the Garden State, and produced a documentary film, The Land Was Theirs, which was broadcast last year on public television.

RELIGION

Princeton Congregation Welcomes New Rabbi

String of Pearls Shul, the two-year old Princeton area Jewish congregation, has a new Rabbi, Sue Levi Elwell. Rabbi Elwell comes to Princeton from Los Angeles, where she was most recently the spiritual leader of the Irvine Jewish Community. Prior to that she was Assistant Rabbi to the Leo Baeck Temple. She is currently director of the American Jewish Congress Feminist Center in New York City.

Rabbi Elwell is a congregational Rabbi with more than seven years experience in the pulpit, and has done extensive community work, serving as chaplain to a group of Jewish convicted felons recovering from a range of addictions in a recovery house, teaching a women's study group, and doing extensive counseling of individuals and families. Said Rabbi Elwell, "Although I was trained in the Jewish Reform movement, and as a Rabbi I have been committed to nurturing Jewish souls in a wide range of settings, I am very active in the Jewish Renewal movement through the Havurah and P'nai Or summer institutes, work on the P'nai Or Suddur committee, and most recently as a teacher and counselor at Elat Chayyim, the Woodstock Center for Healing and Renewal."

Rabbi Sue Levi Elwell

Rabbi Elwell will conduct her first String of Pearls services for the High Holy Days. The congregation will hold five services at the Masonic Lodge on River Road in Kingston: Rosh Hashana services on Monday evening, September 5, and Tuesday morning, September 6. Yom Kippur services will be Wednesday evening, September 14, with both morning and evening services on Thursday, September 15. All Central New Jerseyans seeking a creative, personalized and deeply spiritual way to worship Rosh Hashana and Yom Kippur are invited to participate. "I am a teacher of the tradition that acknowledges how we come to the text with very different lives and very different needs," said Rabbi Elwell. "Tradition teaches 'Turn it, turn it, for all is within it.' We need to turn the text over, so that we can see what had not been illuminated before. I see myself as a teacher and a leader of this turning and this interpreting."

For information about String of Pearls, call William Singer at 908 359-1284. For more information on String of Pearls High Holy Day Services, call Diane Krumrey, 921-0126, or Ann Harwood, 921-3060.

Installation Ceremonies Planned for New Pastor

The Reverend Felicia Y. Thomas will be installed as the 19th Pastor of the First Baptist Church of Princeton on September 25. Chosen from among over 60 applicants, Rev. Thomas began her duties as Pastor last February. She is the first woman called to pastor the church in its 100-plus years history. Rev. Thomas is only the fourth woman in the National Baptist Convention.

Since February, Rev. Thomas has spent her time meeting the congregation and learning about the Princeton area. She has also been evaluating existing programs of the church, and exploring new ones. In an effort to expand outreach activities, she recently co-pastored a succesful Vacation Bible School with the Rev. John White of Witherspoon Presbyterian Church.

First Baptist Church clergy, officers, members and friends will officially celebrate the installation of Rev. Thomas beginning Friday, September 23, when a banquet in her honor will be held at 7 p.m. at the Princeton Country Club, 1 Wheeler Road. The speaker for the evening is the Rev. Janet Cooper-Nelson, Brown University, Providence, R.I. Tickets are $35.

The celebration will continue at 11 a.m. on Sunday, September 25, at the First Baptist Church, John Street and Paul Robeson Place. The Rev. Frank Thomas, of Seattle, Wash., will deliver the sermon for the Sunday morning worship service. The weekend will culminate with the Service of Installation scheduled for 6 p.m. Sunday, September 25. The Rev. Dr. James Forbes, Riverside Church, New York City, will officiate.

The public is invited to attend all of the celebration activities. For further information, and to order tickets, call the church at 924-0877.
